Financial Insights

from Quinn+Cardy Wealth Management of BMO Nesbitt Burns

"Letters" to a Young Investor

Perhaps a result of a confluence of factors — buoyant markets, social media influence, today's ease of investing and rapid returns — we have been receiving more questions about how to support young investors.

In his book, Letters to a Young Athlete, former Toronto Raptors star, Chris Bosh, provides invaluable lessons to the next generation about the value of sweat, the importance of humility and how to tame your inner voice to become your ally. Bosh is seemingly a polymath: he spent his off-seasons learning computer coding, taking guitar lessons and practicing Spanish. His book, he says, is meant for anyone who aspires to greatness in any field: "it takes hard work to achieve your goals."<sup>1</sup>

It is good advice that may be relevant to young investors just starting out. Successful investing is a culmination of many elements — wealth comes from choices, not chances: choosing to save wisely, using time to your advantage and eventually putting in place an investment plan that encourages value, quality, and diversification. Most importantly, and perhaps somewhat lost in today's rapidly ascending markets, investing is also about training your inner voice to have the patience and understanding that building wealth often occurs over the longer term.

Here are three tenets of successful investing that may be worth passing along:

1. Saving can be one of your best investments. It doesn't matter how skilled you are when it comes to the markets, if you do not have savings to deploy you cannot generate wealth. Wealth is the accumulated difference between what you bring in and what you spend. You can build wealth without a high income but you have no chance without a high savings rate. More importantly, individuals with just modest pay and steady jobs have been able to amass a tidy fortune — all because of saving. Fostering good savings habits at a young age and before you make a lot of money is important: If you can't manage a little, you likely won't be able to manage a lot.

2. Markets will not always be this easy: risk and reward are intrinsically linked. Markets don't always go in one direction. Making money over recent times has been easy, but as the saying goes, "never confuse brains with a bull market." While we didn't see significant volatility for most of 2021, volatility is the norm. Markets are cyclical by nature and this means accepting that, sometimes, risk assets will significantly decline in value. Increased potential returns of an investment go hand-in-hand with increased risk. You have to be willing to live through losses in the short term to experience gains over the long term. At the same time, down markets can provide opportunity — to buy in at lower valuations, higher dividend yields and better price points — all of which help to generate better overall wealth years down the road.

3. Time is the ultimate equalizer...and can be a significant asset! While short-term periods of volatility will be commonplace, over longer time horizons this volatility smooths out. Younger folk have one of the greatest assets available: time. Add in the power of compounding and this provides the opportunity to grow wealth into the future. Consider the benefits of starting early: As a 25-year old, if you saved and invested $500 each month for 20 years, and left this amount to compound until the age of 65, you would end up with around $545,000, based on a compounded annual rate of return of 5 percent. If you started later at age 45, you would need to save almost 2.7 times more per month, or $1,327, to end up with the same amount by age 65. Starting early means you'd need less capital to achieve the same outcome: at age 25, this would require $120,000 over 20 years, compared to around $318,000 if you started 20 years later. 1. www.wsj.com/articles/chris-bosh-on-the-sudden-surreal-end-of-his-nba-career-11621528351

BMO 🙆 Private Wealth

Quinn+Cardy Wealth Management of BMO Nesbitt Burns

1 First Canadian Place 38th Floor, P.O. Box 150 Toronto, Ontario M5X 1H3 Toll Free: 1-800-263-2286 Fax: 416-359-5346 www.quinncardy.com

BMO Private Wealth is a brand name for a business group consisting of Bank of Montreal and certain of its affiliates in providing private wealth management products and services. Not all products and services are offered by all legal entities within BMO Private Wealth. Banking services are offered through Bank of Montreal. Investment management, wealth planning, tax planning and philanthropy planning services are offered through BAN of Montreal. Investment management, wealth planning, tax planning and philanthropy planning services are offered through BMO Nesbitt Burns Inc. and BMO Private Investment Counsel Inc. BMO Bank of Montreal are Members of CDIC. ® Registered trademark of Bank of Montreal, used under license.
This publication is for informational purposes only and is not and should not be construed as professional advice to any individual. Individuals should contact their BMO representative for professional advice regarding their personal circumstances and/or financial position. This newsletter was produced by J. Hirasawa & Associates, an independent third party for the individual Investment Advisor noted. The calculation of performance data set forth herein has been prepared by the author as of the date hereof and is subject to change without notice. The author makes every effort to ensure that the contents have been compiled or derived from sources believed to be reliable and contain information and opinions, which are accurate and complete. The information contained in this publication is based on material believed to be reliable at the time of publication, but BMO Private Wealth. Cannot guarantee the information contained therein are those of the dathereof and are subject to change without notice and may not reflect those of BMO Private Wealth. Individuals should contact their BMO representative for professional advice regarding their personal circumstances and/or financial position. Please note that past performance is not necessarily an indicator of future performance. All rights are reserved. No