

The Principal Residence Exemption is one of the most important tax breaks available to Canadians; allowing you to reduce or eliminate the capital gains tax owed when selling your home. However, the tax rules governing the exemption can quickly become complicated, particularly if you own more than one residence.

The report – A Guide to the Principal Residence Exemption – provides an overview of the exemption and outlines some potential issues you could encounter when taking advantage of the exemption.

Please contact us if you have any questions about this report or would like to discuss your investment portfolio.
